Isiltasuna Binocheren bidaide

Eskerrak emateko hitzaldian Binochek senideak, lagunak, gertukoak, kolaboratzaileak eta lankideak gogoratu ditu. Donostia Zinemaldiari ere eskerrak eman dizkio maite dituen zinemagileen filmak erakusteagatik. "Etxean bezala sentitzen naiz hemen, bero hori sentitzen dut eta ohorea da hemen egotea", adierazi du hunkitutu aktore frantziarrak.

"Bidelagun leial batire eeskerrakeman nahi nizkioko: isiltasunari. Isiltasuna presentzia bat da. Sekuentzia bat heldu au-rettik, interpretatu aurretik, isiltasuna in-darra da niretzat; isiltasunetik ateratzen ditut nik emozioak eta sentsazioak, eta inolako borondaterik gabe agertzen da. Baina isiltasunik gabe, ez dago hitzik. Isiltasunik gabe ez dago espirituriak, eta isiltasun hori zinemagile batekin, aktore batekin, film bateko lantaldearekin par-tekatzen denean, orduan urezko hari bat ehuntzen da eta hori pelikula bihur-zten da. Eta orduan, aktore izateko nire ametsen zentzu guztia obra bizi batean gorpuzten da", baiezta du saridunak.

Touched by silence

Juliette Binoche was presented with the first of this year's Donostia awards by film director Isabel Coixet at a ceremony in the Kursaal last night.

Coixet, who directed Binoche in Nobody Wants the Night, praised the performer before presenting her with the Donostia Award. "It is true what they say about her face emanating light, but it is an incredibly generous light, and if I close my eyes, I feel that, although all her characters are radically different from each other, they are all touched by this extraordinary unique light", she stressed.

The French actress dedicated her award to silence. "I would like to thank a faithful travelling companion of mine: silence, which is a presence. Before a take, before performing, silence is strength, from which I draw emotions and sensations. But without silence, there are no words and when that silence is shared with a filmmaker, an actress or an actor, or with the team of a film, a golden thread is woven that goes on to become a film, and all the meaning of my dreams of becoming an actress is personified in a living work", she said.
